DONALD J. TRUMP SUSPENDS HABEAS CORPUS

Reiterating his contention that the news media are the enemy of the American people, Donald J. Trump has signed an executive order declaring a nationwide state of emergency and suspending both the First Amendment and habeas corpus. In a brief appearance at his golf club in New Jersey, Trump declared that Americans are "sick and tired of the way both broadcast and print reporters have unfairly treated me."

To give teeth to his declaration, Trump has immediately shut down The New York Times, the Washington Post, and CNN. Employees of those organizations have been placed under house arrest and are being monitored by ankle bracelets.
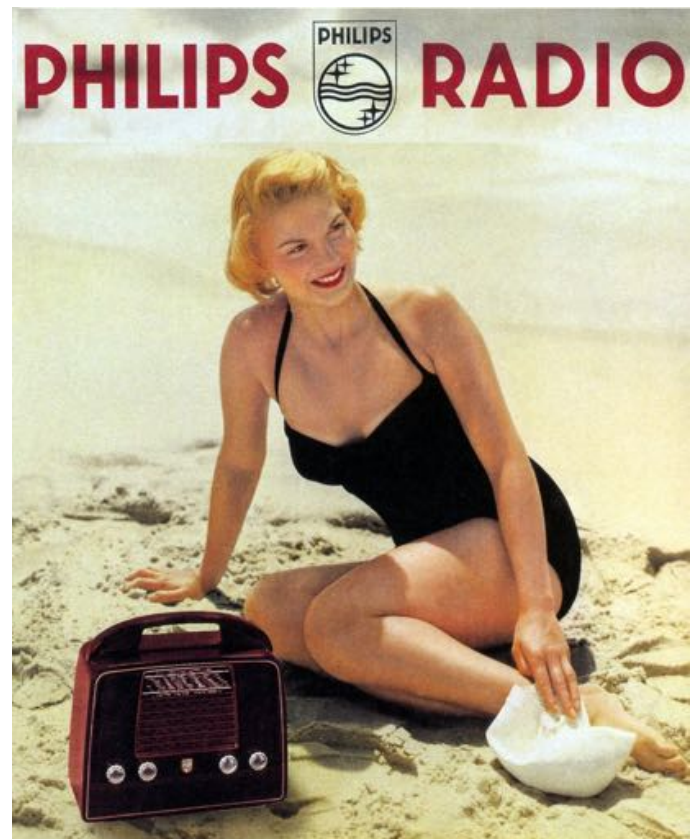

"It's a start," Trump said. "But I'm not through with the fake news media yet, believe me."

When asked if he might be violating the Constitution, Trump alleged that he has a high IQ, is a very, very smart man, has the greatest memory in history, and attended an important Eastern university. "I'm also very rich," he added.

Trump's actions have been wildly applauded by the majority party in Congress and by 42 percent of the American public, as polled by the official White House news service, Breitbart.
